

THE LIQUID MENU

k

At Kinglet, our wine list seeks to represent not only the Pacific Northwest, but a worldview that knows no borders.

And why shouldn't it?

Nature itself recognizes no boundaries - especially not those established by us. Yet right where the violent clash of fire and water and sun and wind rages hardest, twisting and racking the earth's surface, we proud little things have fenced off plots for which to build our monuments to eternity.

Like sand castles before a tide, these monuments are destined to crumble, to be reclaimed by an unflinching, indifferent universe. And yet, for one moment, before our dreams and toil dissolve into the void, our memory - our castle - stands.

As time marches on, crushing all in its path, it recognizes no masters. But, for those who would taste of its grandeur, there is hope that in savoring a memory, a second stolen away from the infinite, there can exist an eternity within a single moment.

This is a book of moments.

WINES BY THE GLASS

Wines hand-selected by our wine team to accompany tonight's tasting menu. If you're asking for a great glass to go with your dinner, these are your best bets.

WINE PAIRING - 85

The obvious answer is that our wine team has already come up with a spectacular set of wines for tonight's dinner, having vetted things thoroughly. Seven 2.5 ounce pours will act in concert with dinner tonight, setting up every bite for bliss. Let us complete your meal! Also, trust us. We do this for a living.

(THE ROCKS DISTRICT OF) MILTON-FREEWATER, OREGON

Among the most distinctive wine growing places in the world, especially within the Walla Walla AVA, the prized Rocks District of Milton-Freewater is legendary for the heightened aromatics and 'funk' its terroir summons to the wines. River stones akin to the legendary galet stones of Châteauneuf-du-Pape litter the floor of what was 15000 years hence an ancient riverbed. These dry stones heat up during the day, providing warmth for the the vines which are planted over them, helping the bunches ripen through the cold desert nights. With only 3770 acres total, the Rocks District is the smallest AVA in Oregon, and produces some of the most sought-after wines for connoisseurs.

As a disclaimer, many of the wines you'll see here are grown in the Rocks, but having been processed on the Washington side, cannot be labelled precisely "The Rocks District of Milton-Freewater." Since we believe terroir trumps legislature, I've decided to include some of these wines in this section.

I will also note here that some prominent entities who grow grapes down there don't like or acknowledge the name 'The Rocks District of Milton-Freewater.' Kinglet respectfully stays out of the political battleground here, but we think it's too special of a place not to partition into its own section on this list, and therefore, we've got to give it a name. A sort of 'damned if you do, damned if you don't' scenario.

That said, I encourage diners to visit the vineyards of Milton-Freewater to speak with its stewards, that they might draw their own conclusions while seeing American Viticultural history being made before their eyes.
